

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

I. INDEX OF SUBJECTS.

II. INDEX OF WRITERS.

BY WILLIAM CUSHING, A.B.,

LATE ASSISTANT IN HARVARD COLLEGE PUBLIC LIBRARY.

CAMBRIDGE:

PRESS OF JOHN WILSON AND SON.

"As it is [the North American Review], it is like a dictionary in which the letters are mixed up promiscuously, full of what we want, if we only know where to find it. As it will be with your index, it will constitute a library in itself, containing many articles by which the wisest and most learned may profit, but especially interesting to all American students, as the best connected record of the growth of native thought and scholarship."

O. W. H.

Boston, 1878.

P R E F A C E.

I CANNOT send my little book into the world, without expressing the hope that it may satisfy every reasonable expectation. I have spared no pains to make it complete and accurate. If it is not so, the fault is my own; for on every side I have met with encouragement and assistance. The fullest sources of information, in regard to the past and present writers, have been opened to me by the past and present editors, by the late and present publishers. I am able to furnish the names of the writers of nearly all the principal articles; and of nearly all the critical notices, except during the editorship of Dr. Palfrey, who is too infirm to give me any information.

I have thought it important to place on permanent record the names of all who have contributed any, even the least, thing to this valuable journal; and think I have reason to be gratified at the degree of my success.

I have sought to give the full names of the writers, in the Index. I have not always been able to do this, because in some cases of the earlier writers the lists which remain give merely the surnames, and not even the initials of the Christian names. In the case of later writers, the initials are given; but the writers are not always sufficiently known to enable any person to fill them out with much confidence. I have done this, however, in most cases, by the help of library and College catalogues, and without, I hope, many errors.

In the Subject-Index, I have tried to give the names of authors, at least once, in full. This is so important, now, in all bibliographical work, that I have thought it worth while to spend much time in ascertaining them.

All readers of the "North American Review" know that the books placed at the head of an article serve often, like the preacher's text, merely to suggest the subject of the article. In such cases, I have not generally entered the title in my Index. Sometimes, however, if the book would afford additional valuable information on the subject of the article, I have given it. In the Critical Notices, on the other hand, in most cases, the subject of the book is not touched in the notice: here, again, I have not entered its subject in the Subject-Index. It is only when there are remarks on the book itself, and on the subject of the book, that I have entered it both under its title and under its subject. Any other course would only swell my Index, without any advantage to the person who uses it.

Though regarded, generally, as of use only to libraries and scholars that possess the Review, I am confident that such an Index will be of equal value to any person in his study who does not own the Review, but who has access to a set in some public library. He will find in it a key to extensive and varied information on almost every subject that invites his attention, and supplied by the very best writers on that subject. He can then send to his public library and obtain just the volumes he wants, almost as easily as if they stood upon the shelves of his own library. As there are many references to parts of articles, however, in the Subject-Index, he would do well to turn to the Writers-Index to ascertain if the reference is to an entire article or not.

It may be noticed that the number of pages in my Index is not so large as that promised in the prospectus. The difference is owing, simply, to its having been printed in a smaller type (as a matter of taste) than was at first proposed.

There are many persons to whom I owe the warmest thanks for encouragement and assistance in my work. I cannot give their names; but no expression of theirs of advice, help, or sympathy will be forgotten.

As I cannot hope to have avoided all errors, I shall be thankful to those who may discover important ones, if they will communicate them to me. If desirable, I will print an "Errata," and send it to my subscribers.

CAMBRIDGE,
18 Wendell Street, July, 1878.

As some persons may have volumes or sets of the "North American Review" they would like to sell, while others would like to buy them, I shall be glad to be the medium of communication between these parties, and facilitate the transfer.

INDEX

NORTH AMERICAN REVIEW.

VOLUMES I.-CXXV., 1815-1877.

THIS work was issued in 1878, and was received with great favor. In his Dedicatory Address, Dec. 3, 1878 (see Boston Medical and Surgical Journal, Dec. 12, 1878), Dr. Holmes said of it:—

"The North American Review kept filling up shelf after shelf, rich in articles which I often wanted to consult, but what a labor to find them, until the Index of Mr. Cushing, published a few months since, made the contents of those one hundred and twenty volumes as easily accessible as the words in a dictionary. . . . I have already referred to the Index to the North American Review, which, to an American, and especially to a New Englander, is the most interesting and most valuable addition of its kind to our literary apparatus since the publication of Mr. Allibone's 'Dictionary of Authors.' I might almost dare to parody Mr. Webster's words in speaking of Hamilton, to describe what Mr. Cushing did for the solemn rows of back volumes of our honored old Review which had been long fossilizing on our shelves: 'He touched the dead corpse of the' North American, 'and it sprang to its feet.' A library of the best thought of the best American scholars during the greater portion of the century was brought to light by the work of the index-maker as truly as were the Assyrian tablets by the labors of Layard."

The Index, bound in cloth, will be sent free on the receipt of $3.00, the Supplementary Index for 50 cts.

Address WILLIAM CUSHING, 18 Wendell Street, Cambridge, Mass.

A similar Index to the Christian Examiner has been published, and will be sent postpaid on the receipt of $2.50, or the three for $5.00.

PROSPECTUS.

THE subscriber has in preparation a Dictionary of Biography,— CENTURY OF AUTHORS, 1780—1880.

It will give, as far as possible, the names and brief notices of all American writers during that period whose names would find a place in a library catalogue, a less-full list of British writers, and a still less complete one of the Continental from 1800. It will aim to bring together in a compact form materials that are now scattered through a large number of volumes, and to add to them much that has not as yet appeared in print,— notices of the hundreds who all around us have contributed much or little to the literature of the age. The notices will be, though brief, not merely a list of dates, but such as will interest the general reader.

It is hoped that it will be ready for the press in the Fall of 1882, when it is proposed to issue it in monthly parts of 96 pages; and it will probably include 50,000 names, and from two to three volumes of 1000 pages each.

Communications of encouragement or information will be thankfully received. Subscriptions and early orders from the trade are solicited.

WILLIAM CUSHING.
